

Student health strategy and consulting

Support student well-being, mitigate risk, and gain valuable insights to optimize health benefits

Institutions have a powerful opportunity to leverage student health information to drive better decisions that support retention and success. However, many struggle with managing this data in a way that maintains security and privacy while extracting meaningful insights to support whole-student success. As a result, many institutions miss out on crucial opportunities to address student needs.

How we support institutions

- Connecting and analyzing de-identified data from various systems to build a comprehensive picture of student health and well-being trends.
- Facilitating campus-wide engagement to better understand student well-being needs and opportunities.
- Enhancing student health service access and reimbursement through optimized claims management and operational improvements.
- Identifying gaps in health service policies, procedures, and practices to strengthen data security and compliance.
- Guiding institutions through change management to implement impactful and sustainable improvements.

Why it matters

The complex health insurance landscape plays a growing role in student enrollment decisions—more than ever, students evaluate accessibility and affordability when selecting a school. Our tailored strategies help institutions optimize student health benefits, making schools more attractive and competitive.
